(1) A criminal offence can be perpetrated by an act or an omission to act.

(2) A criminal offence is perpetrated by omission when the perpetrator, who is legally obligated to avert the consequence of a criminal offence defined by law, fails to do so, and such failure to act is tantamount in its effect and significance to the perpetration of such a criminal offence by an act.

VI CHAPTER SIX
CRIMINAL RESPONSIBILITY

Article 35
Elements of Criminal Responsibility

(1) A perpetrator who is mentally capable and guilty of perpetrating a criminal offence shall be held criminally responsible.

(2) If the capacity of the perpetrator to comprehend the significance of his act, and his ability to control his conduct was considerably diminished due to any of the mental conditions referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article, he may be punished less severely (considerably diminished mental capacity).

(3) The perpetrator shall be considered criminally responsible if, by consuming alcohol or narcotic drugs or otherwise, he brought himself into such a state of not being capable to comprehend the significance of his actions or controlling his conduct, and if prior to bringing himself into such a condition, the act was intended by him, or there was negligence on his part in relation to the criminal offence in cases where criminal responsibility is prescribed by law for such an offence even if perpetrated out of negligence (voluntary intoxication).

(4) The state of considerably diminished mental capacity to which the perpetrator has brought himself in the way provided referred to in paragraph 3 of this Article may not constitute grounds for the mitigation of punishment.

Article 37
Intent

(1) A criminal offence may be perpetrated with direct or indirect intent.

(2) The perpetrator acts with direct intent when a perpetrator was aware of his deed and desired its perpetration.

(3) The perpetrator acts with indirect intent when a perpetrator was aware that a prohibited consequence might have resulted from his action or omission to act but nevertheless consented to its occurrence.

Article 38 Negligence

(1) A criminal offence may be perpetrated by advertent or inadvertent negligence.

(2) The perpetrator acts with advertent negligence when he was aware that a prohibited consequence might have occurred as a result of his action or omission to act, but carelessly assumed that it would not occur or that he would be able to avert it.

(3) The perpetrator acts with inadvertent negligence when he was unaware of the possibility that a prohibited consequence might have occurred, although, under the circumstances and according to his personal characteristics, he should and could have been aware of such possibility.

Article 39 Mistake of Fact

(1) A person is not criminally responsible if at the time of the perpetration of a criminal offence, he was not aware of one of its elements defined by law, or if he has mistakenly believed that circumstances existed which, if they had actually existed, would render such conduct permissible.

(2) If the person's mistake resulted from his negligence, he shall be criminally responsible for the criminal offence perpetrated out of negligence, provided that the criminal offence in question is punished by law when perpetrated out of negligence.

Article 40 Mistake of Law

A perpetrator of a criminal offence, who had justifiable reason for not knowing that his conduct was prohibited, may be punished less severely or released from punishment.

VII CHAPTER SEVEN PUNISHMENT

Article 41 Types of Punishment

(1) The following punishments may be imposed on perpetrators of criminal offences who are criminally responsible:

a) Imprisonment;

b) Fine.

(2) Imprisonment may be imposed only as principal punishment.

(3) A fine may be imposed both as a principal and as an accessory punishment.

(4) If both punishments are prescribed for a criminal offence, only one of them may be imposed as a principal punishment.

(5) For criminal offences motivated by greed, a fine may be imposed as an accessory punishment even when that is not specifically prescribed by the law or in cases where the law prescribes that the perpetrator shall be punished by imprisonment or a fine, and the court decides to impose the punishment of imprisonment as the principal punishment.

Article 42 The Purpose of Punishment

The purpose of punishment is:

- a) To express the community's condemnation of a perpetrated criminal offence;
- b) To deter the perpetrator from perpetrating criminal offences in the future;
- c) To deter others from perpetrating criminal offences; and
- d) To increase the consciousness of citizens of the danger of criminal offences and of the fairness of punishing perpetrators.

Article 43 Imprisonment

(1) Imprisonment may not be shorter than thirty days or longer than twenty years.

(2) For the gravest forms of serious criminal offences perpetrated with intent, imprisonment for a term of twenty to forty-five years may be prescribed (long-term imprisonment).

(3) Long-term imprisonment may never be prescribed as the sole principal punishment for a particular criminal offence.

(4) Long-term imprisonment may not be imposed on a perpetrator who has not reached twenty-one years of age at the time of perpetrating the criminal offence.

(5) Under the conditions prescribed by Chapter X (Rules Relating to Educational Recommendations, Educational Measures and Punishing Juveniles) of this Code, juvenile imprisonment may be imposed. Juvenile imprisonment is in its purpose, nature, duration and manner of execution a special punishment of deprivation of liberty.

(6) Imprisonment shall be imposed in full years and months; however, the punishment of imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months may also be imposed in full days. Long-term imprisonment shall be imposed only in full years.

(7) If long-term imprisonment has been imposed, amnesty or pardon may be granted only after three-fifths of the punishment has been served.

Article 44 Community Service

(1) When the court metes out and imposes imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, at the same time it may decide that such punishment, with the consent of the accused, be replaced with community service.

(2) The decision to replace imprisonment with community service shall be based upon the assessment that, considering all the circumstances determining the type and range of the sentence, the execution of imprisonment would not be necessary to realise the purpose of punishment, but at the same time a suspended sentence would not be sufficient to accomplish the general purpose of criminal sanctions.

(3) Community service shall be determined for duration proportional to the imposed imprisonment, from a minimum of ten to a maximum of sixty working days. The period for performing community service shall be neither shorter than one month nor longer than one year.

(4) In assessing the duration of community service, as well as the period for its performance, the court shall take into consideration the imposed imprisonment that is being substituted and the perpetrator's possibilities regarding his personal circumstances and employment.

(5) When, upon the expiry of the determined period, the convicted person has not completed or has only partly completed the community service, the court shall render a decision on the execution of imprisonment for a period proportional to the unfulfilled community service.

(6) The substitution of imprisonment with community service may also be applied in the case of substituting a fine with imprisonment pursuant to Article 47 (Substitution of Fine) of this Code.

(7) Placement in community service as to the type and the place of work shall be made by the cantonal ministry in charge of justice matters pursuant to the residence or domicile of the convicted person and taking into consideration his capacities and skills.

Article 45 Release on Parole

(1) A convicted person who has served half of his sentence, and as an exception, a convicted person who has served one third of his sentence, may be released from serving the punishment of imprisonment under condition that he does not perpetrate another criminal offence before expiration of the time of the sentence (parole, conditional release).

(2) A convicted person, who has served half of his sentence, may be released from serving the punishment of imprisonment if in the course of serving his sentence his conduct has improved to the point where he can reasonably be expected to behave himself appropriately after his release from serving the punishment of imprisonment, and particularly not perpetrate criminal offences. In determining whether to release a convicted person on parole, account shall be taken of his conduct during the term of the sentence, as well as other circumstances indicating that the purpose of the punishment has been attained.

(3) A convicted person who has served one third of his sentence may be released on parole, provided that the conditions referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article exist, and provided that special circumstances relating to the personality of the convicted person manifestly indicate that the purpose of the punishment has been attained.

(4) The person sentenced to long-term imprisonment may be granted conditional release after three-fifths of the punishment have been served.

Article 46 Revocation of Parole

(1) The court shall order revocation of parole if the convicted person, while on parole, perpetrates one or more criminal offences for which a punishment of imprisonment for a term of one year or a more severe punishment has been imposed.

(2) The court may order revocation of parole if the parolee perpetrates one or more criminal offences for which a punishment of imprisonment for a term up to one year has been imposed. In deciding whether to revoke the parole or not, the court shall take into special consideration the similarity in the nature of the acts perpetrated, their significance, the motives out of which they were perpetrated, as well as other circumstances indicating the appropriateness of revoking parole.

(3) When the court orders revocation of parole, it shall impose punishment considering the previously imposed sentence as an already fixed punishment. The part of the punishment that the convicted person served under the earlier sentence shall be credited toward service of the subsequent sentence, whereas the period of time spent on parole shall not be credited.

(4) The provisions of paragraphs 1 through 3 of this Article shall also be applied when the parolee is tried for a criminal offence perpetrated prior to his release on parole.

(5) If the parolee is convicted to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, and if the court does not order revocation of parole, the term of the release on parole shall be extended for a period of time the convicted person spent serving the punishment of imprisonment.

Article 47 Fines

(1) Fines are imposed in daily amounts and if that is not possible, then in a fixed amount.

(2) If a fine is imposed in daily amounts, it may be a minimum of five and maximum of three hundred sixty daily amounts, whereas for criminal offences motivated by greed, a maximum imposable fine is one thousand five hundred daily amounts, except in the cases foreseen by this Code.

(3) If a fine is imposed in a fixed amount, a minimum amount may not be less than 150 KM and a maximum one may not exceed 50.000 KM whereas for criminal offences motivated by greed, a maximum fixed amount imposable may not exceed 1.000.000 KM, except in the cases foreseen by this Code.

(4) In imposing a fine for criminal offences motivated by greed, the court may impose a fine exceeding the maximum prescribed amount in paragraphs 2 and 3 of this Article if the value of the illegal gain acquired through the perpetration of criminal offence exceeds the amount of 1.000.000 KM. In such case, the perpetrator may be imposed a fine in an amount that may not exceed the double amount of the value of the illegal gain acquired through the perpetration of criminal offence for which he is being imposed a fine.

(5) A number of daily amounts is determined by the court according to the general rules on meting out punishments. A daily amount is determined by the court according to the amount of the perpetrator's daily income calculated on the basis of his net salary during three months and his other income and family responsibilities. In determining the amount, the court relies on the data not older than six months at the moment when the fine is imposed.

(6) Data referred to in paragraphs 1 through 5 that are not known to the court, shall be provided by the accused within the deadline set by the court, but not later than by the closing of the main trial in criminal proceedings. If the circumstances relevant for the determination of a daily amount of fine are not known to the court by the end of the main trial in criminal proceedings, a fine is imposed in a fixed amount whereby the general rules for meting out punishments are applied.

(7) A minimum daily amount of fine is 1/60 and a maximum amount is 1/3 of the most recent officially published employee's average net salary in the Federation, as published by the Agency of Statistics of the Federation.

(8) The deadline for payment of the fine is determined in the judgement, but may not be shorter than fifteen days or longer than six months, but the court may allow in justified cases that the convicted person pays the fine in instalments, whereby the deadline for payment may not exceed two years.

(9) Fines imposed and collected under this Code shall be credited to the Budget of the Federation.

Article 48 Substitution of Fine

(1) Fine shall not be collected by force.

(2) If a fine is not paid in full or in part within the period determined in the judgement, the court shall, without delay, issue a decision to substitute the fine by imprisonment.

(3) The fine shall be substituted by imprisonment in such a way that each daily amount started, or if the fine was imposed in a fixed amount each 50 KM started, is substituted by one day of imprisonment, whereby the imprisonment may not exceed one year.

(4) If the convicted person has only paid a portion of the fine, the remaining amount will be proportionally converted into imprisonment and if he then pays the remaining amount, the execution of imprisonment ceases.

Article 49 General Principles of Meting out Punishments

(1) The court shall mete out the punishment for the perpetrator of a criminal offence within the limits prescribed by law for that criminal offence, having in mind the purpose of punishment and taking into account all the circumstances bearing on the magnitude of punishment (extenuating and aggravating circumstances), and in particular: the degree of criminal responsibility, the motives for perpetrating the offence, the degree of danger or injury to the protected object, the circumstances in which the offence was perpetrated, the personal history of the perpetrator prior to the perpetration, his personal situation and his conduct after the perpetration of the criminal offence, as well as other circumstances related to the person of the perpetrator.

(2) In meting out the punishment for the perpetrator of a criminal offence perpetrated in recidivism, the court shall take into special consideration whether the most recent offence is of the same type as the previous one, whether both acts were perpetrated from the same motive, and the period of time which has elapsed since the previous conviction or served or pardoned punishment.

(3) In meting out a fine, the court shall take into consideration also the situation of the perpetrator in terms of property, taking into account the amount of his salary, his other income, his assets and his family obligations.

Article 50 Reduction of Punishment

The court may met out the punishment for the perpetrator below the limit prescribed by the law, or impose a less severe type of punishment:

- a) When law prescribes that the perpetrator may be punished less severely; and
- b) When the court determines the existence of highly extenuating circumstances, which indicate that the purpose of punishment can be also attained by a reduced punishment.

Article 51 Limitations in Reduction of Punishment

(1) When the conditions for the reduction of punishment referred to in Article 50 (Reduction of Punishment) of this Code exist, the court shall reduce the punishment within the following limits:

- a) If a punishment of imprisonment of ten or more years is prescribed as the lowest punishment for the criminal offence, the punishment may be reduced to five years of imprisonment;
- b) If a punishment of imprisonment of three or more years is prescribed as the lowest punishment for the criminal offence, the punishment may be reduced to one year of imprisonment;
- c) If a punishment of imprisonment of two years is prescribed as the lowest punishment for the criminal offence, the punishment may be reduced to six months of imprisonment;

- d) If a punishment of imprisonment of one year is prescribed as the lowest punishment for the criminal offence, the punishment may be reduced to three months of imprisonment;
- e) If a punishment of imprisonment not exceeding one year is prescribed as the lowest punishment for the criminal offence, the punishment may be reduced to thirty days of imprisonment;
- f) If a punishment of imprisonment is prescribed for a criminal offence without indication of the lowest limit, a fine may be imposed instead of imprisonment;
- g) If a fine is prescribed for a criminal offence with the indication of the lowest amount, the punishment may be reduced up to five daily amounts and if it is imposed in the fixed amount, it may be reduced to 150 KM.

(2) When deciding on the extent of reducing punishment pursuant to the rules set forth in paragraph 1 of this Article, the court shall take into special consideration the lowest and the highest measure of punishment prescribed for the particular criminal offence.

Article 52 Release from Punishment

(1) The court may release the perpetrator of a criminal offence from punishment when such possibility is explicitly prescribed by law.

(2) In cases when the court is allowed to release the perpetrator of a criminal offence from punishment, the court may decide to reduce the punishment having no regard to limitations in reduction of punishment prescribed in Article 50 (Reduction of Punishment) of this Code.

Article 53 Special Condition for Release from Punishment for Criminal Offences Perpetrated out of negligence

The court may release from punishment the perpetrator of a criminal offence perpetrated out of negligence, when the consequences of the offence affect the perpetrator so severely that imposing a punishment would obviously not serve the purpose of punishment.

Article 54 Concurrence of Criminal Offences

(1) If the perpetrator, by a single action or by several actions, has perpetrated several criminal offences, for which he is tried at the same time, the court shall first determine the punishment for each of the criminal offences separately, and then proceed with imposing a compound punishment of imprisonment, long-term imprisonment or a compound fine for all the criminal offences taken together.

(2) The court shall adhere to the following rules in imposing compound punishment:

- a) If the court has determined punishment of long-term imprisonment for one of concurrent criminal offences, it shall impose only that punishment;
- b) If the court has determined punishment of imprisonment for the concurrent criminal offences, the compound punishment must be higher than each of the individual punishments, but may not be as high as the sum of all incurred punishments, nor may it exceed a period of twenty years;
- c) If for each of the concurrent criminal offences a punishment of imprisonment not exceeding three years is prescribed, the compound punishment may not exceed eight years;

- d) If fines only have been determined by court for the concurrent criminal offences, the compound punishment must be higher than any individual determined fine, but it may not exceed the sum of all determined fines.

(3) If the court has determined punishments of imprisonment for some of the concurrent criminal offences, and fines for other concurrent criminal offences, it shall impose the compound punishment of imprisonment and the compound fine, pursuant to the provisions set forth in paragraph 2, items b) through d) of this Article.

(4) The court shall impose an accessory punishment if it is determined for at least one of the concurrent criminal offences, and if the court has determined several fines, it shall impose the compound fine pursuant to the provisions set forth in paragraph 2, item d) of this Article.

(5) If the court has determined punishments of imprisonment and juvenile imprisonments for the concurrent criminal offences, it shall impose the compound punishment pursuant to the provisions set forth in paragraph 2, items b) and c) of this Article.

Article 55 Continued Criminal Offence

(1) The provisions of this Code regarding concurrence of criminal offences shall not apply to a criminal offence arising out of the same transaction.

(2) A criminal offence arises out of the same transaction when the perpetrator intentionally perpetrates a number of identical criminal offences or offences of the same type which, according to the manner of perpetration, the temporal connection and other material circumstances connecting them constitute a whole.

(3) When a criminal offence arising of the same transaction comprises offences of the same legal description, the court shall choose the type and the range of the punishment prescribed for such a criminal offence. If criminal offences of the same type are at issue, the court shall choose the type and the range of punishment prescribed for the most serious of these offences.

Article 56 Meting out Punishment for a Convicted Person

(1) If a convicted person is tried for a criminal offence perpetrated before commencing to serve the previous sentence, or for a criminal offence perpetrated while serving a sentence of imprisonment, long-term imprisonment or juvenile imprisonment, the court shall impose a compound punishment for all the criminal offences applying provisions set forth in Article 53* (Concurrence of Criminal Offences) of this Code, taking the punishment from the earlier sentence as an already fixed punishment. The sentence or part of the sentence, which the convicted person had already served, shall be credited toward the imposed sentence of imprisonment or long-term imprisonment.

(2) For a criminal offence perpetrated during the course of serving the punishment of imprisonment, long-term imprisonment or juvenile imprisonment, the court shall impose to the perpetrator the punishment independently of the punishment from the earlier sentence, in cases when the application of the provisions set forth in Article 53* of this Code would lead to failure to achieve the purpose of punishment considering the duration of non-served portion of the previous sentence.

(3) To a convicted person who, while serving the punishment of imprisonment, long-term imprisonment or juvenile imprisonment, perpetrates a criminal offence for which the law prescribes a fine or punishment of imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, a disciplinary measure shall be applied.

* Should be 54.

* Should be 54.

Article 57

Credit for the Period Spent in Custody and Credit for Punishment under an Earlier Sentence

(1) The time spent in custody pending trial, as well as any deprivation of freedom related to the criminal offence, shall be counted as part of the imposed punishment of imprisonment, long-term imprisonment, juvenile imprisonment or fine.

(2) The fine paid or prison term served upon conviction for a minor offence shall be counted in the punishment imposed a criminal offence whose characteristics are the same as characteristics of the minor offence.

(3) In each counting of the credit, one day spent in custody pending trial, one day of deprivation of freedom, one day of juvenile imprisonment, one day of imprisonment, one day of long-term imprisonment and the amount of 50 KM, shall be deemed equal.

Article 58

Credit for the Detention and Sentence Served Abroad

The detention, deprivation of freedom in the course of an extradition procedure, as well as the punishment which the perpetrator served upon a judgement of a foreign court, shall be counted in the punishment imposed by the domestic court for the same criminal offence, whereas if the punishments are not of the same kind, the credit for the punishment served abroad shall be effected in a way the court finds fit.

WARNING SENTENCES (NON-CUSTODIAL MEASURES)

Article 59

Types of Warning Sentences

Warning sentences are:

- a) Judicial admonition;
- b) Suspended sentence.

Article 60

Purpose of Warning Sentences

(1) The purpose of judicial admonition is to give to a criminally responsible perpetrator a reprimand, when a punishment does not need to be imposed to achieve the purpose of criminal sanctions nor to ensure criminal justice protection.

(2) The purpose of a suspended sentence is to give to a perpetrator of a criminal offence a reprimand with a threat of punishment, which achieves the purpose of criminal sanctions by pronouncing a punishment without executing it, when the execution of punishment is not necessary to ensure criminal justice protection.

Article 61

Judicial Admonition

(1) A judicial admonition may be pronounced for criminal offences for which a punishment of imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year or a fine is prescribed, which have been perpetrated under such extenuating circumstances which render them particularly minor, when, given all the circumstances regarding the perpetrator, his attitude toward the injured party and compensation for the damage caused by the criminal offence in particular, all requirements have been met for achieving the purpose of criminal sanctions without punishment.

(2) A judicial admonition may be pronounced also for a particular criminal offence for which a punishment of imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years is prescribed, under conditions prescribed by law and when the other conditions referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article are met.

(3) Judicial admonition may be pronounced also for concurrent criminal offences, if for each of those offences the conditions referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article are met.

(4) In deciding whether to pronounce a judicial admonition, the court shall, taking into account the purpose of judicial admonition, give special consideration to the personality of the perpetrator, his personal history prior to the perpetration, his conduct after the perpetration of the criminal offence, the degree of criminal responsibility and other circumstances under which the criminal offence has been perpetrated.

(5) A judicial admonition may not be pronounced to military persons for criminal offences against the armed forces of the Federation.

Article 62 Suspended Sentence

(1) By a suspended sentence the court determines a punishment for the perpetrator of criminal offence, but at the same time orders that it shall not be executed if the convicted person does not perpetrate another criminal offence over a period of time established by the court, which may not be shorter than one or longer than five years (probation period).

(2) In deciding whether to pronounce a suspended sentence, the court shall, taking into account the purpose of the suspended sentence, give special consideration to the personality of the perpetrator, his personal history prior to the perpetration, his conduct after the perpetration of the criminal offence, the degree of criminal responsibility and other circumstances under which the criminal offence has been perpetrated.

(3) A suspended sentence may be imposed when a punishment of imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or a fine has been determined for the perpetrator.

(4) A suspended sentence may be pronounced for criminal offences for which the punishment of imprisonment for a term of ten years or a more severe punishment may be imposed, only if a punishment referred to in paragraph 3 of this Article has been determined by reduction of the punishment prescribed by law.

(5) A suspended sentence may not be pronounced for criminal offences for which even after a reduction of the punishment, a punishment of imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year may not be imposed.

(6) If both a punishment of imprisonment and a fine have been determined for the perpetrator, the suspended sentence may be pronounced either for both punishments or only for the punishment of imprisonment.

(7) Security measures, ordered alongside a suspended sentence, shall be executed.

Article 63 Obligations of the Person under Suspended Sentence

(1) In a suspended sentence, the court may order the following obligations: that the convicted person shall make a restitution of the gain acquired by the perpetration of the criminal offence, that the convicted person shall compensate for the damage caused by the perpetration of the criminal offence, or that the convicted person shall fulfil other obligations provided for in criminal legislation in the Federation.

(2) For the fulfilment of an obligation referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article, the court shall determine the period, which period shall be within the determined probation period.

Article 64 Revocation of Suspended Sentence because of a New Criminal Offence

(1) The court shall revoke the suspended sentence if the convicted person perpetrates one or more criminal offences for which a punishment of imprisonment for a term of two years or a more severe punishment had been imposed before the probation period expired.

(2) If the convicted person perpetrates one or more criminal offences during the probation period for which the punishment of imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or a fine has been imposed, the court shall decide, upon consideration of all circumstances related to the criminal offences perpetrated as well as to the perpetrator, particularly the possible similarity of the perpetrated offences, their significance and motives from which the offences have been perpetrated, whether to revoke the suspended sentence. In taking such decision, the court is bound by the prohibition on imposing a suspended sentence if a punishment of imprisonment for a term exceeding two years (Article 62, Suspended Sentence, paragraph 3 of this Code) needs to be imposed on the perpetrator for the criminal offence for which the suspended sentence was imposed and for new criminal offences.

(3) In the event of revocation of the suspended sentence, the court shall impose one compound punishment both for the previously perpetrated and the new criminal offence, pursuant to the provisions of Article 54 (Concurrence of Criminal Offences) of this Code, taking the revoked suspended sentence as an already fixed punishment.

(4) In the event that the court does not revoke a suspended sentence, it may impose a suspended sentence or a punishment of imprisonment for a newly perpetrated criminal offence. If the court decides that a suspended sentence should be imposed for the newly perpetrated criminal offence as well, the court shall apply provisions set forth under Article 54 of this Code to impose one compound sentence both for the previously perpetrated and the new criminal offence and it shall also determine one compound probation period, which may not be shorter than one or longer than five years, commencing on the day the new sentence became effective. If the court imposes a punishment of imprisonment for the new criminal offence, the period of time spent serving that punishment of imprisonment shall not be deducted from the probation period established by the suspended sentence for the previously perpetrated criminal offence.

Article 65 Revocation of Suspended Sentence because of Previously Perpetrated Criminal Offence

(1) The court shall revoke a suspended sentence in case that, after it was imposed, it learned that the perpetrator had perpetrated a criminal offence prior to the imposition of the suspended sentence, and the court deems that there would have not been enough grounds for the imposition of a suspended sentence had the existence of that criminal offence been known. In such a case, the provision set forth under Article 64 (Revocation of Suspended Sentence Because of a New Criminal Offence) paragraph 3 of this Code shall be applied.

(2) If the court does not revoke a suspended sentence, it shall apply the provision set forth under Article 64, paragraph 4 of this Code.

Article 66 Revocation of Suspended Sentence caused by Failure to Fulfil Particular Obligations

(1) The court shall revoke the suspended sentence and order the execution of the imposed punishment if the convicted person, within the course of the determined probation period, does not fulfil the obligations imposed on him in cases where he could have fulfilled them.

(2) In the case of the impossibility of fulfilling the obligations, the court may extend the deadline for the fulfilling of the obligations, or may replace such obligations with other obligations provided for in criminal legislation in the Federation, or relieve the convicted person of the obligations.

Article 67 Deadlines for Revocation of Suspended Sentence

(1) A suspended sentence may be revoked during the probation period.

(2) If a convicted person perpetrates a criminal offence entailing revocation of the suspended sentence during this period, but it is established by judgement only after the expiration of the probation period, the suspended sentence may be revoked at the latest one year after the probation period has expired.

(3) If a convicted person fails to fulfil a certain obligation referred to in Article 63 (Obligations of the Person under Suspended Sentence) paragraph 1 of this Code within the determined deadline, the court may revoke the suspended sentence no later than one year after the expiration of the probation period, and order execution of the punishment imposed as the suspended sentence.

Article 68 Suspended Sentence with Protective Guardianship

(1) The court may order that a perpetrator, who has been subject to a suspended sentence, be placed under protective guardianship if, upon having considered the circumstances of the criminal offence, personality of the perpetrator, his personal history prior to the perpetration and his conduct after perpetrating the criminal offence, it came to the conclusion that it would contribute to achieving more efficiently the purpose of suspended sentencing and social rehabilitation.

(2) Protective guardianship encompasses measures of assistance, care, supervision and protection outlined under this Code, provided that the protective guardianship may not last less than six months nor it may exceed two years.

Article 69 Contents of Protective Guardianship

Protective guardianship may include the following obligations:

- a) Treatment in an appropriate health institution;
- b) Refraining from intake of alcoholic drinks or opiates (intoxicating drugs);
- c) Attending particular psychiatric, psychological or other counselling centres and acting in accordance with their instructions;
- d) Training for a certain profession;
- e) Accepting employment which is appropriate to the skills and abilities of the perpetrator;
- f) Disposing with the salary or other income and property in an appropriate way and in accordance with marital or family obligations.

Article 70 Ordering Protective Guardianship

(1) The court orders in a judgement one or several obligations set forth under Article 69 (Contents of Protective Guardianship) of this Code, determining what exactly they cover.

(2) When ordering the obligations referred to in Article 69 of this Code, the court shall take into special consideration the age of the perpetrator, his general physical and mental condition, his life inclinations and habits, especially at home, in school or at work, the motives out of which the criminal offence has been perpetrated and his conduct after perpetrating the criminal offence, his personal history prior to the perpetration, personal and family circumstances, as well as other circumstances related to the person of the perpetrator, which are important for selecting the obligations within protective guardianship and their duration.

(3) If, during protective guardianship, the court establishes that the purpose of the protective guardianship has been attained, it may terminate the protective guardianship before the expiration of determined period.

(4) If a convicted person to whom the protective guardianship has been ordered fails to fulfil obligations imposed on him by the court, the court may warn him or may replace earlier obligations with others or extend the protective guardianship within the probation period, or may revoke the suspended sentence.

Article 75 Mandatory Medical Treatment of Addiction

(1) The security measure of mandatory medical treatment of addiction may be imposed on a perpetrator who perpetrates a criminal offence under the decisive influence of addiction to alcohol or to narcotic drugs, if there is a danger that due to such an addiction he will repeat the offence.

(1) The security measure of ban on carrying out a certain occupation, activity or duty may be imposed on a perpetrator who perpetrates a criminal offence with regard to property entrusted or accessible to him by virtue of his occupation, activity or duty, if there is a danger that such role could induce the perpetrator to perpetrate another criminal offence through the abuse of the occupation, activity or duty with regard to the property entrusted or accessible to him.

(2) Objects referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article may be forfeited even if not owned by the perpetrator, if consideration of public safety or moral reasons so require, but such forfeiture does not affect the rights of third parties to obtain damage compensation from the perpetrator.

(3) In the cases referred to in paragraph 2 of this Article, the law may prescribe mandatory forfeiture.
